-The List of Them. Fifty leading citizens of Orangelurg by their cooperation and liberal- dence on Amelia street in this city ity of spirit have made possible a splendid series of attractions to ap- suit of Alice blue silk with hat to near on the Orangeburg Lyceum the coming Fall and Winter.

The Lyceum is not a member of the valley. church, neither does the Lyceum attend school, but it is the handmaid of the church and school anda helpor to every movement that has to do with civic improvement and betterenent. Through the cooperation of these fifty men and women of the community the lyceum is made possible for the coming season and the appearance in the community of some of the best talent is assured. While these fifty subscribers will receive their dollar's worth, yet they have shown fine spirit in preserving this noble agency to the community.

CHANGE AT COLORED COLLEGE

Miller as President.

After successfully managing the Colored State College in this city since it was first established as president, Thos. E. Miller turned over the institution to R. S. Wilkinson, the new president a few days ago. In retiring from the college Miller carries with him the best wishes of the best people of this city. He made a splendid president, managing the large number of students under him most with firmness and decision.

Before the transfer was made the board of trustees made a thorough examination of the books and records of the college and found everything straight and in good shape. R. S. Wilkinson, the new president enters upon his duties with fine prospects, work that has been carried on for so long a period by the first president Thos. E. Miler, whose administration

Under the wise management of Miller, the college has grown and teen years ago, the college property was valued at less than $50,000 At the present time it is valued at between $200,000 and $250,000. This wonderful growth was achieved under the management of Miller as president, and he deserves much of the credit for it. In his departure the college loses the active influence of one of its best friends.
